TSUI

The 21shares Sui ETF (TSUI) is designed to track the price of Sui – a high-performance platform built to make blockchain apps feel as smooth as the ones you already use on your phone.

By offering familiar features like social media login and near-instant speeds, the network is designed to scale for everyone, offering versatility across a wide range of use cases – from finance and AI to gaming. By investing through an ETF, investors can gain exposure to both Sui and staking in a transparent, liquid, and more familiar way.

INVESTMENT CASE FOR SUI

Internet scale and performance

Sui offers internet-scale performance by processing transactions in parallel rather than in sequence. It handles thousands of transactions per second with near-instant confirmation.. This high-speed, low-cost foundation is built to scale for the next billion users.

Built for users, by ex-Meta/Facebook product experts

Built by former Meta engineers, Sui was built to simplify the user experience. Its "big tech" pedigree includes zkLogin for using Google or Apple accounts and "sponsored" transactions that eliminate gas fees for the user. Sui is designed for mobile gaming and commerce, aiming to host the next generation of apps.

Security and developer focused due to Move programming language

Sui uses Move, a language that treats digital assets as resources that cannot be copied or deleted. A bytecode verifier acts as an automated safety inspector, blocking bugs before code goes live. This security-first design reduces exploits to promote stability for developers and investors.
